

Summer School

God in the Depths of the Mind:

Plotinus and Augustine's Trinitarian Speculation

presented by

Dr Joseph S. O'Leary

Sophia University, Japan

One of the original sources of the 'theological turn' in phenomenology, Dr O'Leary is a theologian of international renown who has engaged equally with neo-Platonism and with post-Heideggerian philosophy. He has just published the third volume of a theological 'trilogy', Conventional and Ultimate Truth (Notre Dame, 2015) – the companion to Questioning Back (Winston, 1985) and Religious Pluralism and Christian Truth (Edinburgh, 1996). Other notable publications include L'art du jugement en théologie and Christianisme et philosophie chez Origène.

22 - 26 June 2015

Mater Dei Institute of Education, DCU, Clonliffe Road, Dublin 3

This five-day summer school will concentrate on the Enneads and On the Trinity. It will be of interest to scholars and researchers in theology, philosophy, religious studies, classics and intellectual history. The course can be taken for 10 ECTS credits; it can also be audited.

For further details, please contact Dr Ian Leask, Philosophy, Mater Dei Institute, DCU, Dublin:

E: ian.leask@dcu.ie